JOHNSON OIL COMPANY ENGLAND SERVICE

TANK WAGON SERVICE

FLEETWOOD TIRES

Lawrence and Dean Johnson started in business as Johnson Brothers Oil Company in 1945 across the street south from the Community Building in what was known as the Ernie Lent Building. Equipment was purchased from Mac Been, and they handled Phillips 66 products. Dean made numerous trips to Diagonal with a 400-gallon tank wagon to buy fuels from Grover Wright. Gasoline delivered to the farm was less than 30¢ a gallon; fuels less than 10¢ a gallon.

In 1950, the Johnson brothers bought the present Mobil bulk plant from Frank Richards. Three years later they purchased the service station from Frank, whose father, Eldon Richards, had operated it for thirteen years. They were then able to buy transport loads carrying 8,000 gallons of fuel. Following the death of Lawrence in 1968, Dean leased the station to Jim England. It operates as England Service. Dean continues to operate Johnson Oil Co.

Early in the decade of the 70's a nation-wide "energy crisis" made gas in short supply and caused prices to spiral. Current prices are in excess of $1.25 on gas and $1.10 on fuels. In March, 1979, England Service became the first station in the county to sell gasohol.

Employees who have worked full-time at the station are: M.C. Been, Jerry Jobe, Jim and Mike Archibold, Richard Palmer, Kent and Roger Trullinger, Jim England, Mike Breckenridge, John Skarda, Buddy Allen, and Jack Haley.
